ABSTRACT

A contact lens 10 is molded with indicia 64 that are etched into a mold tool 1. In one embodiment, the tool is made of stainless steel and is masked and electrochemically etched with a solution of sodium chloride. The voltage and current are DC and they and the time and temperature are controlled to provide a desired depth of etch.